

Materials needed: $1.00 coin (1); $.50 coin (1); Quarter (2); Dime (2); Nickels (3)

Coin Installation Ceremony

Thank you for the honor of installing you and your newly elected board tonight. Retiring officers, as I call your names, please stand and remain standing:

President =

Vice President =

Secretary =

Treasurer =

Director =

Director =

On behalf of the association members, I wish to express our deepest appreciation of the untiring effort and splendid leadership which you have displayed in directing this association through another successful term.

As a tribute to those who have so ably served, will you please join me in a display of gratitude. (APPLAUSE)

As installing officer, I now declare you relieved of your duties. Thank you.

As I introduce each of the newly elected officers and directors, please come forward, take the first coin and form a line to my (left/right).

Tonight we look into the future of the "ASSOCIATION NAME". As members of a large trade organization, we are dedicated to serving the needs of consumers, and by using their coins we forge ahead in this endeavor.

Webster says: Coinage is the stamping of a piece of metal – to make money or to make or invent.

Tonight, let's invent. Let's look into the future with something new. All coins have a moral stamp...a bit of heritage. That is our base. To grow...that is our privilege.

You should always remember your roots as you continue moving through this new millennium.

SECOND YEAR DIRECTOR (NICKEL) =

FIRST YEAR DIRECTOR (NICKEL) =

A nickel for both of you. This is a reminder to spend cautiously. To keep the officers within the structured limits of this association. The future will be by your guidance.

SECRETARY (DIME) =

The history of this association of the coming year is in your hands. This dime is to remind you that as in the past, “ten cents worth is a full measure.” Your attendance at all meetings to record motions and decisions for the future is your contribution.

TREASURER (QUARTER) =

You are the “keeper of the coins.” This quarter is a reminder to you to face the responsibility of the books—budgeted control – all the basics we must account for.

VICE PRESIDENT ($.50) =

This half dollar is assigned to you. Your experience qualifies you for this office. Your one half of a dollar is a proving ground for the future.

PRESIDENT ($1.00; Quarter; Dime; and Nickel) =

The dollar is your coin. This is to remind you that your position requires 100% interest in all projects. Your members have voiced their faith in you as their leader for the coming year. Though wealth cannot be totally expressed in coins – the future is in your leadership.

Ladies and Gentlemen: I present to you the leaders of “ASSOCIATION NAME” for the 200X-200X term.